SUPREME OFFENSE AGAINST INTERNATIONAL MORALITY IS CHARGED IN PEACE TREATY

Violation of the Sanctity of Treaties is Laid Against Former Ruler of the German Empire; Surrender Will be Demanded of Holland.

OTHER CRIMINALS OF WAR MUST BE SURRENDERED

PARIS, April 28.—The peace treaty with Germany, as drawn for presentation to the Germans, contains a clause providing that former Emperor William be tried in an international tribunal, it was learned today.

A separate tribunal will try other military officers.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—New articles proposed for insertion in the peace treaty to be considered at the plenary session of the peace conference today, the State Department announced today, include the following:

Article I.—The allied and associated powers publicly arraign William II of Hohenzollern, former German emperor, not for an offense against criminal law but for a supreme offense against international morality and the sanctity of treaties.

It is proposed that a special tribunal be constituted to try the accused, consisting of five judges, one appointed by each of the five great powers, the United States, Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan.

The allied and associated powers will request Holland to surrender the former emperor for trial.

Persons accused of violation of the law and customs of war, according to a second proposed article, will be brought before military tribunals and if found guilty, "sentenced to the punishment laid down by military law."

All persons accused of having committed an act in violation of the laws and customs of war who are specified "either by name or by the rank, office or employment which they held under the German authority" will be demanded of the German government for trial by the military tribunal of the power against whose nationals the criminal acts were perpetrated.

Article IV is as follows:

"The German government undertakes to furnish all documents and information of every kind, the production of which may be considered necessary to insure the full knowledge of the incriminating acts, the discovery of the offenders and the just appreciation of the responsibility."

FORMER VANDERBILT TEACHER ACCUSED OF FALSE PRETENSE

Miss Nellie W. Danley Arrested For Defrauding Pittsburgh Mercantile Establishments.

Accused of having defrauded department stores and downtown shops of Pittsburgh out of thousands of dollars worth of goods through charging small purchases to other people, Miss Nellie W. Danley of Pittsburgh, said to be formerly of Vanderbilt, was arrested in a Pittsburgh department store Saturday afternoon by Detectives John Lally and Frank Boyd.

Miss Danley is said to have admitted to Detective Clyde Edeburn having defrauded one store, but denied that she was guilty of robbing the others. Her arrest followed the purchase of a box of rouge on credit, the young woman having given the name of a prominent Pittsburgh woman, the police say. It is claimed that Miss Danley had used the names of 43 Pittsburgh women in purchasing goods, aggregating considerable in value, in stores the past year by representing herself as various well-known women.

She is a bookkeeper and is declared by her relatives to be in no need of clothes or other articles she is said to have obtained. She is charged with false pretense.

The accused young woman formerly taught in the Vanderbilt schools and is well known in that community.

SAILORS DROWNED IN COLLISION IN NEW YORK HARBOR

Navy Launch Returning to Battleship Nevada Strikes Another Vessel.

OTHERS ARE RESCUED

First Reports, Coming from Witnesses of the Tragedy, Said 13 Lost Their Lives; Official Statement Reduces the List of Casualties.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 28.—Four sailors were drowned early this morning when a motor dory belonging to the U. S. Destroyer Bell was sunk in a collision with the U. S. S. Henley, according to an official statement issued this afternoon from the office of the chief of staff of Rear Admiral Ashley Robertson.

First reports said 13 persons were drowned.

The police said that in the absence of an official statement by the naval authorities they based the report of information from persons who said they witnessed the sinking and heard the cries of the drowning sailors. These witnesses declared that the launch apparently collided with something just before reaching the Nevada and they had a clear view of what was taking place because of the naval searchlights playing on the scene. There were 14 persons in the launch, one being rescued, according to the police reports.

Sailors from the battleship Mississippi said the launch struck a submerged log, that they rescued one man and that a crew from the Nevada rescued another. Four men were reported saved by other crews. It was learned the launch was from the destroyer Bell.

You don't take a chance with Atlantic Motor Oils. Under every condition of speed they cushion every moving part. The big users have proved this. Experts specify Atlantic. For your motor's sake—ask for Atlantic Polarine or Atlantic Light, Medium or Heavy.

WOMAN SUFFERED 12 YEARS

Finally Made Well by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Emmitsburg, Md.—"I suffered for twelve or fifteen years, and was treated by a physician, but got little relief. I saw an advertisement of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in my newspaper, so I thought I would try it, and it did more good than all the doctor's medicine. I am a farmer's wife and do my housework all the time, and I am better now than I have been for years. I am never without Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the house and have recommended it to several of my friends. You are perfectly welcome to publish my letter for the good it may do other women."—Mrs. ETTIE WARREN, Emmitsburg, Md.

Backache and nervousness are symptoms or nature's warnings, which indicate a functional disturbance or an unhealthy condition which often develops into a more serious ailment.

Women in this condition should not continue to drag along without help, but profit by Mrs. Warren's experience, and try this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—and for special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Med. Co., Lynn, Mass.

Automobile Breaks Wrist.
Charles McGinnis, 16 years old, of near Greensburg was trying to crank a Ford yesterday afternoon when the machine "kicked" and struck the boy on the wrist, breaking it. He was taken to the Memorial hospital, where the injury was dressed.

Sunday School Demonstrations.
Twelve of the county Sunday school officers were here yesterday and held a demonstration of Sunday school work in the United Brethren church during the afternoon and evening. No department fell down, each doing its share toward making the demonstrations a success. During the afternoon demonstrations were conducted in the young people's work, adult Bible class work, junior department, executive officers, including the school and district officers and teachers training. During the supper hour the visiting Sunday school officers were entertained by the ladies of the Re-Union Presbyterian church.

Domestic Science Prize.
The Boston cook book, written by Miss Farmer, was offered by a lady who is convinced of the value of domestic science course in the public school system, as a reward to the student who would compose the best essay on "The Value of Domestic Science course in a School System." Miss Nannie Farmer, a senior in the high school, through the common consent of the students and the officials was awarded the prize.

The Ladies' Aid of the Baptist church held an all-day sewing bee in the church annex Wednesday. Clyde Grimm arrived at his home here Friday morning from New York, where he was honorably discharged from the service April 24. The MAN with a COUNTRY

By CHARLES ALDEN SELTZER

Author of
"FIREBRAND TREVISON"
"THE VENGEANCE OF JEFFERSON GAWNE"
"THE RANGE BOSS", ETC., ETC.

In a day before the poison of distrust had got into Corwin's veins he would have applied the young man for what he had done, but now he saw in the fellow nothing but a man, a man with a magnificent body who blindly and unthinkingly fought, because, forsooth, a man to Washington had arbitrarily declared fighting to be necessary. He's the sort of fellow that makes it possible for us to wage war," mused Corwin.

"He's a common-lodger—or willing to be," Corwin thought. "But he's a man who knows that—and Capital will use him and his kind. No better just a fighting animal."

And yet, somehow, Corwin smiled. The young man, even while condemning him, his action in attacking the crowd of agitators made Corwin feel, and even now, reviewing the incident, a pulse of something shrank and steadily ran over him.

When Molly King came in she did not look at Corwin. She removed her hat, placed it in a locker, and went directly to her desk, where she sat, her hands folded in her lap, looking out of a window.

Corwin watched her covertly. Of late, Corwin had been aware of a deep interest in Molly. When she had first come to work for him he had regarded her with the impersonal interest of the employer. But of late he had discovered that he liked to have her near him, she made an alluring picture at her desk—her face in profile, the wavy mass of golden brown hair crowning her head and curving in bright folds near the nape of her neck. And several times, watching her when she had not been aware of his gaze, he had drawn mental pictures of her in his house, gazing at his table and his drawing room.

For several days Corwin had noticed in Molly's manner signs of mental perturbation. She had been strangely silent, and several times Corwin had observed an expression of worry and haunting anxiety in her eyes.

He was thinking of her a few minutes later when he heard her chair creak as she left it and approached him, standing close, her face a little pale, a slight embarrassment in her manner.

"Mr. Corwin," she said, "I wonder if you could help me—I wonder if you will help me?"

Looking quickly at her, Corwin saw that her lips were quivering, and that there was a suspicious moisture in her eyes.

"Why, Molly?" He was out of his chair in an instant, astonished. A quick, sincere sympathy had gripped him. "Tell me what's the matter. What's the matter, you know?"

She laughed quaveringly, and he detected from the quivering of her lips that she had doubted him.

not been fairly started when he received an official looking letter from Dillon, the chairman of the committee, requesting him to subscribe ten thousand dollars. Paltown's question, Dillon pointed out, was one million and no doubt Corwin wanted to help the town go 'over the top'.

Corwin did not answer the letter, nor did he send in a subscription. He grinned sardonically as he threw the letter into a waste basket, muttering as he did so: "If they want to carry on their fool war they'll do it without my help."

Aware that he had spoken aloud he wheeled in his chair, to see Molly King watching him curiously.

Corwin flushed with embarrassment. Molly opened his mail as usual, and so of course she knew what Dillon had written. Corwin saw her eyes quicken as she looked from him to the waste basket.

There seemed to be a bit of malice in Molly's eyes as her gaze traveled from the waste basket to Corwin, some speculation, and a glint of amusement.

But she smiled, oddly Corwin would have felt more comfortable had she glared at him—for the smile was expressive of many things that disturbed him. He knew she had heard his violently muttered words, and that she wanted to say some very frank things. Of course it was only because she was an employee that she didn't.

What she did say seemed to have no bearing upon Corwin's action. Yet Corwin knew it was subtle reproach. "Ben has joined the Army, Mr. Corwin," she said. "He was determined not to wait for the draft—he is so eager." And she folded her hands in her lap and looked steadily at Corwin.

Corwin's face went crimson. He turned his back to Molly and pretended to busy himself with his correspondence. Later still uncomfortable, he got his hat and left the office looking back as he went out the door, he saw Molly grimly smiling over her work.

That was only one of the many incidents that tortured Corwin in the days that followed. Bond salesmen accosted him on the streets; they invaded his home, they found their way to his office. Boy Scouts trailed him here and there, friends inquired about the absence of the bond salesman that should have graced the lapel of his coat.

Patriotic advertisements glared at him from the pages of the Observer—seemingly to have been written directly at him. It was as though he were the only man in town who had not subscribed for the Loan that the advertising writers knew it. There were truths in the advertisements, too—the writers seemed to have an uncanny understanding of the influences that

SAM CRANE MADE HOME RUN
Incidentally His Hit Caused Summary Release of Pitcher Sweetney of Cardinals.

Samuel Crane the veteran baseball writer and former infield star is famous for having brought about a pitcher's elation by hitting him for a home run. Sam was a great fielding second baseman, but no terror with the mace. While playing with the Detroit Nationals in 1895 against St. Louis Sam made one of the seven home runs which the Tigers hammered that day off Charles Sweeney of the Cardinals.

Sam was pretty well pleased with himself that night and puffing a big cigar he sauntered gayly down Woodward avenue. There he met Sweeney who immediately started to give Sam a terrible hawling out.

"Why, what is wrong Charlie?" said Sam.

"Wrong enough," replied the pitcher. "You had me fired this afternoon. Henry Lucas said to me, 'I don't mind regular batters hitting you for home runs, but when Sam Crane knocked you for that homer it was the straw that broke the camel's back. You're fired!'"

Umpire Evans Suggests Needed Changes in Rule

Billy Evans baseball umpire when asked what in his opinion was the most unfair rule in baseball, replied without one moment's hesitation:

"The section that covers interference on part of the catcher. A wise catcher can secure a decided advantage for his club."

"When a catcher interferes with a batsman it gives the batsman the right to first base but no runners can advance unless forced."

"At a critical moment all the catcher need do is interfere with the batsman and he makes void anything that is about to happen on the bases."

"Runners should be allowed to advance on such an interference whether forced or not. That would take away the premium on such a move."

INVESTMENT FEATURE ONE THAT MUST APPEAL TO ALL VICTORY BOND PURCHASERS

W. Russell Carr, vice chairman of the Victory-Liberty Loan committee, issues the following explanation of the tax exemption features of the Victory notes for the information of those interested:

In connection with the subscription of E. S. Hackney to the Victory Loan, the Liberty Loan committee wishes to call to the attention of investors, the advantages of the Victory Loan which make direct appeal for purely business considerations. The patriotic reasons for buying our government's obligations now are as great as ever before, but, with the knowledge that this is the best offering of war bonds, it is the part of wisdom—and selfish wisdom, at that—to consider most carefully their purely investment features.

Two series of Victory notes will be issued, 4 1/2 percent four-year notes, partially tax exempt, and 3 1/2 percent four-year notes, wholly free from taxes, excepting the estate and inheritance taxes. These notes are fully convertible and reconvertible.

All Victory notes will be dated May 20, 1919, with interest payable semi-annually on December 15 and June 15.

The distinguishing feature of the two series of notes is to be found in their tax exemption privileges.

The 4 1/2 percent notes are exempt from all state and local taxes (except estate and inheritance taxes), and from normal federal income tax. The value of the exemption from the normal federal income tax is indicated by the fact that a bond or mortgage would have to yield 5.16 per cent to pay holders whose incomes amount to $5,000, as high a rate as the 4 1/2 percent notes of the Victory Loan. In addition, the state tax of four mills, from which Victory notes are exempt, must also be considered.

The 3 1/2 percent notes are exempt from all federal, state and local taxes, except estate and inheritance taxes. The value of this exemption is indicated by the fact that, in the case of individuals paying the highest rates of tax the 3 1/2 percent tax free income is equivalent to a rate of about 14 per cent from taxable bonds. Under the law a married man whose income, subject to surtax, exceeds $46,000 a year will find it profitable to hold 3 1/2 percent notes rather than 4 1/2 percent notes. The correctness of this statement is demonstrated by the fact that the surrender of one per cent in the yield of the bond, or 21 per cent of the income, is profitable only when the total amount of the income subject to surtax is such as to subject the holder to a surtax greater than 21 per cent. The surtax on incomes between $46,000 and $48,000 is 22 per cent and increases as the income grows.

No specific amount of 4 1/2 percent notes is wholly exempt, as in the case of previous issues, but by purchasing Victory notes the exemption privileges of the first four bonds are increased as stated above.

The interest rate of Victory notes is the highest of any existing United States obligations.

WAS SURPRISED AT THE FINE RESULTS FROM PLANT JUICE

Jesse Ulmon, No. 211 Hailman St., Tells How Plant Juice Cured His Wife.

That Plant Juice is repeating its success, is proven every day by the large number of local testimonials received from people in signed statements as to the benefits they have received from the use of this great remedy, like Mr. Jesse Ulmon who lives at 211 Hailman St., Pittsburg, and who is a chauffeur by occupation. He said:

"For three or four years my wife's health has been very poor. Her stomach was in a very weak condition so that she could scarcely keep any food in it. She had headaches, could not sleep at night and was very nervous and all run-down. She seemed to be growing worse and never improved until I got a bottle of Plant Juice for her, as it had been recommended to me very highly. From the first dose I noticed an improvement, and now since she has continued to take it for several weeks she feels like a new woman. She can eat all kinds of food now and is always hungry for her meals. It has cured her nervousness and she is able to sleep the night through and feels rested when she gets up in the morning. Plant Juice is a fine medicine and we are glad to recommend it."

Plant Juice cleanses, strengthens and revitalizes the whole system. It clears the blood of poisons and impurities, puts the liver to work, regulates the bowels, strengthens the kidneys and tones up the digestive organs. It sharpens the appetite and promotes sound, restful sleep.

Plant Juice is sold in Connelville at Roy Metzler's Drug Store.—Adv.

Warm Spring Days Usher in New Fashioned Summer Wraps

THEY ARE newly fashioned, appropriate for present wear and then, very often on a mid-summer evening one has occasion to wear a light wrap.

Capes and Dolmans have chosen silks, satins and jerseys as the fabric best suited for summer wear. They come in many gorgeous colorings that make them especially charming for afternoon or evening.

A Dolman wrap of dust shade silk duvetyne, with sailor collar and gold colored pussy-willow silk lining is one of the most beautiful wraps the season has brought forth. This severely plain model has the exclusiveness and dignity of design that make it especially appealing to anyone who admires the more exclusive things. This Dolman now carries a special pricing of $110, having been reduced from $150.

Belge and French blue wool jersey have been charmingly fashioned in a new cape. Beige, the predominating color, is in a delightful contrast with a throw collar of French blue that ends in 3 little beige and blue silk cord ornaments. The beige vestee has French blue for the button hole edging and trim around pockets. Bright silver buttons and a string belt of beige and blue complete this charming wrap. The price is $48.75.

Another model at $39.75 takes navy blue satin for its fabric and has a wide round collar slightly gathered at the neck. The vestee has two small pockets with little satin covered buttons in a single row, to emphasize the simplicity of the design. The lining is of a gay blue and white printed satin and the smartness of style is impressed by the cape, being a bit shorter than usual.

There are many other styles in satin barre, moon-glo satin, velvet, and fall silk; while in the wool materials silver-tone evora, crystal cord, tricot, point twill, spring velvet, serge and gabardine may be chosen from an endless variety of attractive styles. Prices start at $10.95, $15.00 and upwards to $110.00.

THE "VICTORY BUTTON" WILL BE AWARDED ALL WHO SERVED IN THE WAR

Silver for Those Wounded in Action, Bronze for All Others; An Honor Badge Like G. A. R. Button.

A large button to be known as the Victory Button, for wear on civilian clothes, will be issued to all officers, enlisted men (excluding members of the Students' Army Training Corps), field clerks and members of the Army Nurse Corps, who served honorably on active duty in the Army of the United States for a period of fifteen days at any time between April 6, 1917 and November 11, 1918. The button will be of silver for those wounded in action, and bronze for all others.

For the present the Victory Button will be issued at time of honorable discharge to those entitled to it, and to those who have been already honorably discharged. Later, the button will be issued to all remaining in the service entitled to it.

Those who have been discharged before a supply of buttons was available for issue may secure a button by mailing to the supply officer of the nearest military post, camp or station, their original discharge certificate or a true copy thereof prepared on the form provided for the purpose, or in the case of officers to whom no discharge certificate was issued, their discharge order or a true copy thereof.

These buttons will designate the wearer as having been one of the participants in the world's greatest war, and they will doubtless be as proud of exhibiting the decoration as the fast thinking ranks of the Grand Army of the Republic exultantly show their veteran buttons.
